

Getting Connected

Number of homes with multimedia networks will nearly triple by 2012

A multimedia home network shares a broadband connection with at least one PC and one consumer electronics device, such as a digital video recorder, a TV set-top box, a video game console, an Internet radio, or an IP telephone.

Source: IDC